Hazardous Weather

Hazardous Weather

A winter weather advisory is in effect through 9 am this morning. Very light freezing drizzle and freezing fog will continue across the Rolling Plains resulting in a light glaze of ice.

A Winter Storm Warning is in effect through Thursday east of a Bowie, to Mineral Wells, to Cleburne line, then north of a Cleburne to Canton/Van line. Significant sleet and ice accumulations will result in treacherous driving conditions. A Winter Weather Advisory is in effect for the remainder of North and Central Texas with slick spots, especially on bridges and overpasses that will make for dangerous travel. Road conditions will steadily deteriorate areawide tonight into Thursday morning before some minor improvements with warmer temperatures around freezing Thursday afternoon.

Winter Weather Hazards

Valid through Thursday 6:00 PM CST

Weather Forecast Office
Shreveport, LA

Issued Feb 24, 2022 5:22 AM CST

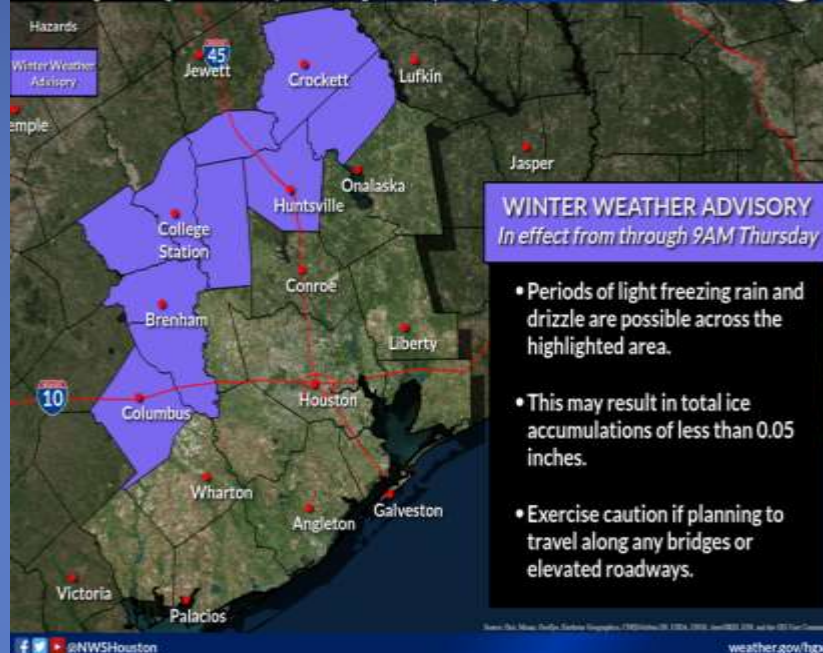

A Winter Storm Warning (in pink) remains in effect for McCurtain County Oklahoma and Red River County Texas with additional freezing rain and some sleet accumulations of one tenth to two tenths of an inch today. A Winter Weather Advisory (in purple) covers southwest Arkansas and much of northeast Texas, where up to a tenth of an inch of ice accumulation is possible. Bridges and overpasses in both of these shaded areas will present a significant travel hazard, especially this morning.

Winter Weather Advisory Continues

In Effect Through Noon Thursday

Weather Forecast Office
San Angelo, TX
Issued Feb 23, 2022 1:38 PM CST

What: Wintry mix of sleet and freezing rain, along with some light snow. Accumulations of a glaze to 1 or 2 tenths of an inch.

Impacts: Hazardous road conditions tonight into Thursday morning, especially across the Big Country.

Hazardous Weather

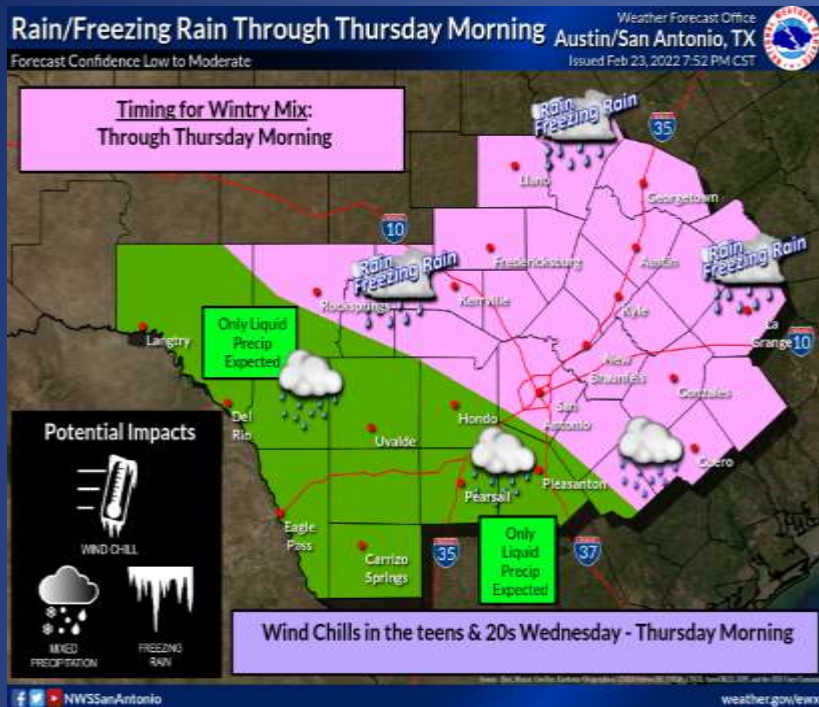

Light freezing rain/drizzle will continue for areas east of the dashed line through this morning. Slippery conditions possible on elevated roadways and bridges. Motorists are urged to slow down and allow extra travel time, especially during the morning commute. Temperatures will slowly warm above freezing across the areas receiving freezing rain during the afternoon where any precipitation should change over to rain. For the western areas, expect little to no additional precipitation and anticipate for some sunshine during the afternoon. This allows the temperatures to warm into the 50s.

A Winter Weather Advisory is in effect for portions of south-central Texas until Noon Thursday. A wintry mix of light freezing rain and freezing drizzle could lead to slick spots on mainly elevated roads through Thursday morning. Motorists are urged to slow down and allow extra travel time, especially during the morning commute.

Hazardous Weather

A Wintry Mix will remain possible through Thursday Morning across the Hill Country, Edwards Plateau, I-35 corridor, and Coastal Plains. Impacts and slippery conditions are possible on elevated roadways and bridges. Motorists are urged to slow down and allow extra travel time, especially during the morning commute.

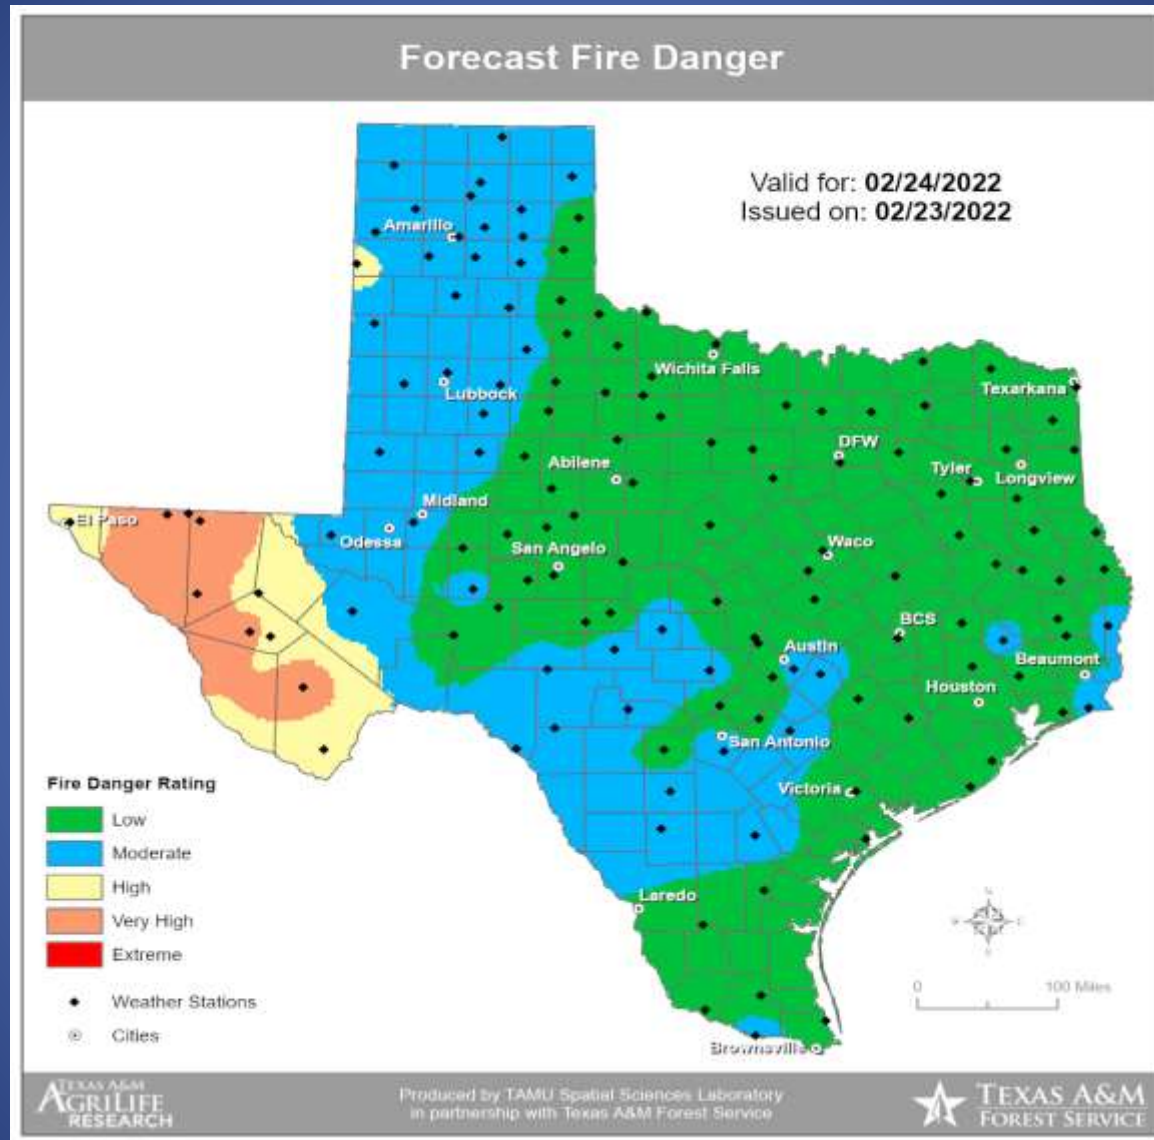

A Winter Weather Advisory is in effect through noon CST for the Western Low Rolling Plains and parts of the Permian Basin. Light ice accumulations from freezing fog and drizzle are possible, especially on elevated surfaces such as overpasses and bridges. Exercise caution when driving!
